

MORNING APPEAL

SUNDAY.....AUGUST 18

Hiram Cook, the very efficient referee of the California Athletic Club, suggests, in the interest of humanity, that he be given the power to stop a fight and declare the winner whenever it shall become apparent that one of the men is beaten and that a continuance of the fight would merely result in the further punishment of a game but conquered man.—Report.

If Cook is accorded this privilege it will virtually kill prize fighting in that club, for no man will bet money on a fight where the referee can stop the fight when he sees fit, and with the decision of the referee so open to comment the club will fast lose prestige and soon cease to be patronized by the sporting fraternity.

A Washington man recently married his mother-in-law, and while in the full tide of his triumph as a hero of the highest order of bravery it was discovered that the marriage was illegal under a law nearly a century old. Thus it is that we so often fail to achieve greatness.—Report.

No More Sunday Baseball
CINCINNATI, Aug., 16.—The Superintendent of Police has notified ball managers that Sunday performances and baseball games will not be permitted hereafter. The Mayor has positively refused to allow the remaining four games scheduled here to take place.

On a morn in dreary winter,
Came a worn and weary printer
O'er his back;
Travel-stained he was, and needy,
And his appetite was greedy
For a "snack."
For the printing-office steering
Till within the door appearing,
Where he bowed, as one revering,
When he spoke,
Saying in a voice as solemn
As a gratis Buchu-column:
"I am broke!"
"In your city I'm a stranger,
Dusty, seedy as a granger—
For I slumbered in the manger
Of a barn."

To TELL THEM APART.—"Speakin' of twins," said old man Chumpkins, "there was two boys raised in our neighborhood that looked just alike to their dyin' day. Lem didn't have any teeth and his brother did, but they looked precisely alike all the same. The only way you could tell 'em apart was to put your finger into Lem's mouth and if he bit yer 'twas Dave."—Lawiston Journal.
